Comments provided by: Company-Downstream user, NL

General information

The basic method is using integrated pest management to solve rodent problems. It is very important that rodenticides can be used as a backup, in case other methods and tools are not effective in eliminating rodent problems.

A professional pest management company should have the possibility to use rodenticides in a controlled way as a backup. In comparison to private persons and other companies the professional pest management companies only use a small percentage of the rodenticides. The biggest improvement for the environment is to limit the use of rodenticides, based on integrated pest management to professional pest management companies only.